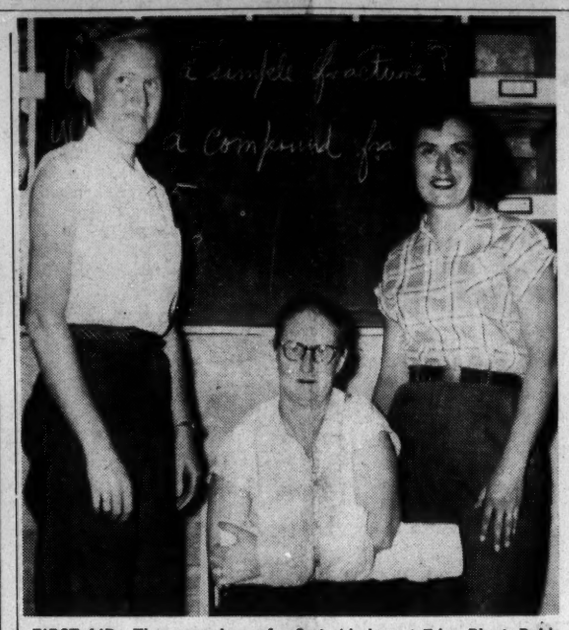
DEDICATION SUNDAY—Palm Street Congregational Christian Church, shown here, will observe its dedication and mortgage burning Sunday morning, May 2.



FIRST AID—These members of a first aid class at Edna Plant, Reidsville, display a bit of their handiwork. They are, left to right, Mrs. Helen Jarrell, Spinning Department; Mrs. Ruby Kiser, Weaving Department, the victim; Miss Vickie Willie Reece, Weaving Department.

Palm St. Church Burns Mortgage Sun. Morning

Palm Street Congregational Christian Church will have its dedication and mortgage burning service Sunday morning, May 2 at 10:45. Co-incidental with this program is the fourth anniversary of the service of the minister, Rev. Mack V. Welch. Rev. M. A. Pollard, former pastor, will begin a week's revival Sunday night at 7:30.

Dr. W. T. Scott, superintendent of the Southern Convention of the Congregational Christian Church, will deliver the dedication sermon Sunday morning. The dedicatory prayer will be by Dr. L. E. Smith, president of Elon College.

Greetings will be extended by Dr. John G. Truitt, chairman of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Convention of the church; Marion W. Heiss, vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, and Rev. G. B. Bennett, member of Palm Street Church and minister of Martha's Chapel Congregational Christian Church, near Chapel Hill, who is also a student at Elon College and is employed in the Spinning Department of Revolution Flannel Plant.

ANNIVERSARY—Rev. Mack V. Welch, pastor of Palm Street Congregational Christian Church, will observe his fourth anniversary with the local church Sunday, May 2. He will officiate in the ceremony of dedication of the building and mortgage burning of the church on the same day.

Palm Street Congregational Christian Church is 49 years old. The present building was begun in 1950 and completed in 1951, with the first service in January of that year. Building fund was started in 1941 during the ministry of Rev. M. A. Pollard who served from 1937 to 1947. Plans were continued during the pastorate of Rev. J. L. Neese who served from 1948-1950. Actual culmination of the plans was seen during the ministry of Rev. Welch.

The church with 200 members has paid off its $20,000.00 debt in three years. Approximate cost of the new building was $60,000.00.

Taking part in the mortgage burning ceremony will be Rev. Welch, chairman of the building committee; P. R. Hall, chairman of the board of trustees; Mrs. Lois Winslow, member of the building committee; A. J. Harris, chairman of the building fund committee and church treasurer; R. S. Yarborough, secretary of the fund committee and Mack Fulk, treasurer.

A Government bureau is where a taxpayer's shirt is kept.

Ben L. Smith, Jr. Registered Engineer

Ben L. Smith, Jr., of Cone Mills Engineering Department, was notified this week that he had passed with the score of 100 per cent the examination which awards him a registered engineer's license.

The letter informing Mr. Smith of his registration was from Dr. Carroll Mann, executive secretary of the state examining board of engineers. The all-day examination which took place at N. C. State College, Raleigh, was set up by the board of examiners and graded by the college professors.

Mr. Smith holds a B. S. degree in chemistry from Duke University. He has been with Cone Mills for the past eight years.

H. M. Angel Attends Inter-State Conf.

H. M. Angel, general secretary of Cone Memorial YMCA, attended the Spiritual Emphasis meeting of the Inter-state YMCA at Montreat last week end. Mr. Angel was elected a delegate to the meeting by the Cone Y board. He is president of the general secretaries section of the organization, and chairman of the nominating committee for the Carolina division.

George M. Ivy, Charlotte, was re-elected president of the Inter-state organization.

Re-elect Mrs. Foster DAV Auxiliary Head

Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, an employee of the Tabardrey Plant at Haw River, has been re-elected to serve a second year as Commander of the Burlington Unit No. 4 of Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary.

The Burlington Unit is to be host to the State Convention the 13, 14 and 15 of May with headquarters at Alamance Hotel.

Cooper, Mildred Jarrell, Marie Tomlin, Ruby Martin, Gertrude Moore, Wilmor Wray, Jack Dockery, Rachel Willett and Elizabeth D. Harviel.

Textile Group Discusses Upkeep Of Machinery

"Maintenance of Textile Machinery" was topic for the meeting of the Northern North Carolina-Virginia Division of the Southern Textile Association at White Oak Branch of Cone Memorial YMCA last Saturday. The group heard a talk by J. L. Delaney, general superintendent of Joanna Cotton Mills, Joanna, S. C., then divided into four discussion groups. One of the groups, that on carding, was led by Clarence Whitt, overseer of Carding at White Oak Plant. Clarence N. Cone, vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, welcomed the group.

Approximately 300 textile men from mills in North Carolina and Virginia attended the meeting and luncheon.

Mr. Delaney discussed the importance of "personalized fixing" and cited examples of this at Joanna Mills. He urged supervisors to impress upon employees the feeling that the machines they tend are theirs to look after. He also explained Joanna's check list system in maintenance.

Miles A. Carpenter, assistant superintendent of Erwin Cotton Mills, Cooleemee, presided. Invocation was by Wylie Patterson of Cone Mills. Charles H. Ward, Highland Cotton Mills, High Point, responded to Mr. Cone's welcome. R. H. Tuttle, Fieldcrest Mills, Spray, introduced the speaker.

Groups in addition to Mr. Whitt's were Spinning, led by P. D. Merritt, superintendent Dacotah Cotton Mills, Lexington, Warp preparation, A. E. Abrams, Erlanger Mills, Lexington; Weaving, Langdon Joslin, Dan River Mills, Danville, Va.

Ceasar Cone P.T.A. Honors Whitt Family

Installation of officers, honoring the Clarence Whitt family and their reading of a letter from Miss Flieda Johnson, retiring principal, were highlights of the Ceasar Cone School PTA meeting last Tuesday night. Mrs. Harry Coble presided.

The Whitt family has had children in the school for the past 30 years. They have served the school in many capacities. Ten of their 12 children were present at the meeting. An orchid was presented to Mrs. Whitt and a carnation to Mr. Whitt. Mrs. R. E. Fitchett made the presentations.

Miss Agnes Cox read the letter from Miss Johnson.

New officers are: Mrs. Harry Coble, re-elected president; Mrs. Jesse Brown, vice president; Mrs. Paul Squires, secretary; Mrs. C. M. Culbreth, treasurer.

Committee chairmen include: Mesdames Carl Carpenter, Olan Oldham, H. L. Creech, Harry Steed, Virgil Lineberry, Carl Pegram, W. W. Trolinger, Frank Starling, Katie Kirkman, W. O. Leonard, Jr.

The glee club under the direction of Miss Sue Elizabeth Briggs, accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret Rowland, sang several selections. The band was under the direction of Fritz Van Der Steur.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Teague and daughters, Donna and Gale of East Point, Ga. spent Easter holidays with Mr. Teague's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Teague.

Cone Official On Television Film

Television Station WFMY-TV last Friday carried part of a film of the forum discussion on foreign trade which took place at the American Cotton Manufacturers Association meeting last week in New Orleans. La. The film showed Marion W. Heiss, vice president of Cone Mills Corporation, chairman of the ACMI's committee on foreign trade as he discussed the importance of not reducing tariffs on textiles coming into the United States.

This was part of the evening newscast by Bob Stroh.

Ministers Hear Points On Press Relations

Textile Ministerial Association heard points on press relations last Wednesday at the luncheon meeting at Proximity YMCA. Speaker was Howard Foshee, minister of education at Asheboro Street Baptist Church, who has had wide training and experience in the field of journalism and press relations. Mr. Foshee entitled his talk, "The Minister and the Press."

Basing his remarks on results of a recent survey he had made among editors of 35 leading daily newspapers throughout the country, Mr. Foshee gave the local ministers reasons for poor press relations and ways to overcome them.

Among the reasons for poor ministerial press relations are: ministers are not news conscious; they are not sufficiently informed on the operations of the press; they fail to realize that newspapers are looking for facts; they tell the press only the good news and fail to report the unfavorable; they do not know how to prepare copy.

Mr. Foshee advised the group to study a good book on journalism and learn what news is, to make an effort to know newspaper people and be their friends but to remember that they are very busy, to learn newspaper style, to learn about deadlines and to cooperate on touchy news as much as they do on things they want to have publicized. He also advocated the inclusion of journalism courses in the theological schools.

Revolution Item

Mrs. Ida Retzer of Houston, Texas, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bowles for a few days.

Chester Arnold On Personnel Relations Hospital Panel

Chester W. Arnold, personnel director of Cone Mills Corporation, president of the Personnel Association of the Greensboro area, is one of the four members of a panel discussion on "Personnel Relations" at the Carolinas-Virginias Hospital Conference at Hotel Roanoke, Roanoke, Va. today.

The conference, anticipating attendance of more than 600 hospital administrators and their assistants from North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, began Thursday and continues through today.

Feeling that hospitals could benefit greatly from experience and methods being used in the field of business and industry, the hospital conference leaders have invited Mr. Arnold along with Le Roy H. Smith, general manager of the Roanoke Plant of American Viscose Corporation, to represent industry on the Friday panel.

Two hospital administrators are on the panel also. They are John W. Rankin, director Milwaukee County Institutions and Departments, Milwaukee, Wis., and J. P. Richardson, superintendent, Presbyterian Hospital, Charlotte, N. C.

W. O. Pohling, president of the West Virginia Hospital Association is presiding over the panel, and moderator is George Laycock, administrator, Conway Hospital, Conway, S. C.

Class Meets

Sue Fidelis Class of Eller Memorial Baptist Church met last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. R. L. Carter, teacher, on the Raleigh Road.

The group voted to have a picnic the third Saturday afternoon in June at the Baptist assembly ground near Kimesville Lake.

Six Cone Units Awarded N. C. Safety Certificates

Six Cone units were represented at the annual safety awards luncheon for Greensboro industrial plants last Tuesday at Bliss Restaurant. N. C. Commissioner of Labor Forrest Shuford discussed one of the major causes of accidents: falls.

Richard C. Childress

Commissioner Shuford listed as causes for falls: unsafe surfaces such as floors slippery from wax, water or grease, elevated points such as scaffolds, etc. ladders, unsafe footwear such as high heels or uncomfortable shoes.

Plants or units receiving certificates for improvement of safety records and accident prevention and their representatives attending the luncheon are:

Childress Is First In Navy Class

Mrs. Paul W. Childress, 1532 Andover Avenue, has been notified by Capt. J. B. Williams, U. S. Navy Commanding Officer, that her son, Richard Clark Childress, has completed his period of training and was graduated with honors from the I. C. Electricians School, standing first in his class. He has just had 17 days at home with his parents, both employees of White Oak Plant.

The captain's letter states, "Your son is to be commended for his earnest efforts and devotion to duty during his course of study while attached to this command. We re-

Piecemeal Information

Even though the Army - McCarthy hearing has captured the interest of the entire nation, and probably a large segment of the entire world, bits of Indochina news continue to receive attention. Even though that serial-type hearing in Washington is more than just a show, as has been intimated by some observers, it is of small relative importance compared to the Indochina situation.

For some time it has been apparent that the general public was being given information piecemeal to prepare it for a greater shock to come later. Now it is generally realized that Indochina is a nerve center of a vital crisis. We probably do not know the whole truth as to the grave danger that situation represents.

We have been told that the United States and the free world cannot permit Red China to accomplish a part of its program by winning the war in Indochina.

It is our opinion that Secretary of State Dulles is engaging in a very sound, although dangerous, strategy in attempting to make the Reds back down by developing a firm united stand by the allies. Of course, it is his hope that the Reds will back down as they did in Korea after it was made clear to them that the United Nations was going to discontinue a passive type of war and become very vigorous in a campaign to bring the hostilities to an end.

There is no guarantee that such strategy will work in the case of Indochina. We believe that if the allies will play ball and follow the strategy of Secretary Dulles that the Reds will back down.

If it should so happen that such a plan will not work, the chances are great that we will soon be engaged in another war of the Korean type but of greater proportions.

On the other hand, if the United States and her allies do not take a firm stand and do not definitely resolve that Indochina is not to fall into the hands of the Reds, it is practically a certainty that Indochina will fall and most of Asia become easy victims of the Red movement.

With such an eventuality, there is no question but that World War III would not be too far distant.

Although we may, by using our present policies, be in early danger of conflict in Indochina, we are not too sure but that such a course would in the end prove far better than by standing aside and permitting the Reds to take over.

Nat'l Cotton Week To Be May 10-15

National Cotton Week, being celebrated May 10-15, spotlights the new 1954 crop of cottons for the home and the entire family. Official Cotton Week poster, to be shown by thousands of participating stores, is reproduced here.

The American public has voted cotton the nation's foremost fiber, with a majority of more than two to one over all other fibers combined.

Seventy per cent of the textiles consumed in the United States are cotton, says the National Cotton Council.

Consumers pick cotton because it is versatile, washable, and strikes the right style note for modern living.

Chemical finishes have glamorized cotton with glazed and embossed effects and have made it soil and wrinkle resistant. Cotton mills have created tweedy cottons, worsted-look cottons, silky cottons, and many other new constructions. High-style designers an interior decorators have installed cotton as a fashion favorite. Yet cotton remains as naturally fresh and practical as ever.

Public demand for cotton has been steadily increasing. U. S. mill consumption now is running at more than nine million bales a year, better than the average of the pre-Korean period.

Some 80 percent of all cotton consumed by American mills now goes into apparel and household products, as compared with 67 per cent two years ago, the Cotton Council notes.

Efficient production on the farm and in the textile mill, along with economic factors affecting the entire textile industry, has made cotton goods in 1954 the greatest textile bargains of all time.

To Discuss Business

NEW YORK—Dr. Marcus Nadler, professor of banking and finance, New York University Graduate School of Business Administration, will discuss the current business situation as the guest of the evening at the annual dinner meeting of the Financial Group, The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, Thursday evening, April 29. The event will be at the Hotel Plaza. Edward M. Fuller of Greenwood Mills, Inc., is chairman of the group and the dinner committee includes Gordon L. Judson of McCampbell & Co., Inc., and Bernard Moos of Wellington Sears Company, Inc.

Cone Has New Line Surfacetone Denim

An embroidered snowflake pattern in Surfacetone Denim is the newest member of the Cone Mills family of denims. The snowflake design is embroidered is black on a range of colors including faded blue, gold, green pepper, winterberry, birch, pumpkin and beaver, planned to coordinate with the solid Falltime denims in Cone's fall line. For variety the Surfacetone denim is also woven in a gambler stripe in red on birch or black, with the snowflake pattern again in black.

This new surface-interest denim lends itself readily to a variety of end uses in women's apparel, including sportswear, dresses, house coats and lounge wear, as well as in home furnishings. Combinations of the snowflake pattern in Surfacetone with plain or striped denims are especially effective in draperies and valances, bed-spreads and slip covers.
